Mrs. Riley Continues Very Ill

Attending Physician Unable to Predict Outcome at Present. Mother of Prisoner Has Been Notified. Telegram Sent to Mrs. Margaret Osborn, Whose Home is at Grafton, W. Va.

Gives Reason for Taking Poison

It is a pitiful story that we have to relate of Mrs. Grace Riley who was caught by the Bradford police last Thursday afternoon in a bold daylight holdup of Frank DeLuca's meat market with a man who she states is her husband and is well known by the Bradford officials as a bad man, and is known by the name of Charles Riley. He deserted her just as soon as the public began the chase. He began by using her for a shield so that the officers who were in pursuit could not hit him, by holding her directly in front of him while he backed to a fence and made his getaway in safety, leaving his wife to shirk for herself, as she relates the story to the authorities, and not one penny to get along with on earth, such is the sorry plight of a young girl, a great many miles from home in company with one of the worst sort of criminals that could be the luck of a girl to be associated with and her story follows. "I am no good and I want to die," she said in the hospital Saturday. Her mother was notified as she cried pitifully as she was being rushed to the hospital where the doctors worked faithfully to relieve her suffering, which was severe. Discouraged at the thought of going to jail, and receiving bad news about her notorious husband, Mrs. Riley told Chief Rowe, after they had returned from the hearing last Saturday. She said to the Chief that she had just found out that Charles Riley had a wife living in Shinglehouse and that he also had one child. She said that he had never mentioned or inferred any such thing to her and it seems that the news greatly shocked her. It was shortly after this time that she took the deadly tablets which will in no doubt result in her death.

After she had been committed by Alderman Williams to the county jail at which time she pleaded guilty and was held in $3,000 to await the action of the garnd jury, it was then that she sought to end it all by taking three tablets of bichloride of mercury, as the attending physicians Dr. E. D. Joseph states that the tablets were unquestionably bichloride of mercury. As a result of the self-administered poison, Mrs. Riley lies critically ill as mentioned above and just what the outcome will be owing to the slow action of the poison cannot be determined at present, so the attending doctors say.

Chief Howe secured the consent of the stricken woman to send a telegram to her mother and reveal all which was done quickly, telling her of her daughter's illness. Up until this time Mrs. Riley has wished all

1809 ABRAHAM LINCOLN 1865

Here is a face upon which men may see
The hushed austerity that nature wears,
At touch of twilight, brooding on the cares
Of bygone days and of the days to be;
And yet which bears the clear tranquillity
Of one whose youth has breathed sweet prairie airs,
Or followed firm behind the plowman's shares,
Or trodden leafy forest ways and free.

The forehead tells of mastery; a mind
Which holding life a thing inscrutable,
Kept faith and hope forever sentinel;
The furrowed cheeks, the locked lips sorrowlined,
Betray a will the nation knew so well,
And deep eyes showed a love for all mankind.

INCREASE OF ROSE HILL CEMETERY FUND PROMISING

The fund for the necessary piping and fixing up of Rose Hill cemetery is steadily going on under the direction of Mrs. Fred Green and the subcommittees that were appointed to solicit the money for this grand cause, and about $250 has been realized by those in charge and many more are to be seen that live in the rural district it is thought will help willingly swell the remaining deficiency. The committe have in mind through soliciting that they could arrange to have some entertainment whereby the rest of the money could be secured. If it cannot be raised any other way. We will wait developments for next weeks issue.

HORSE'S FOOT CAUGHT IN RAILROAD TRACK

On Saturday morning while Samuel Green was on his way to the Green farm to draw logs to town for Holmes & Gilfillan and was about to make the crossing at East Smethport on the Pennsylvania R. R., one of his horses' foot was caught in some unknown manner which required the efforts of quiet a few men to extricate. The horses foot was caught in such a way that the planks had to be removed before they could get the animal loose. Mr. Green was indeed glad that the animal did not break his leg, however this was the fact aside from being a trifle lame is just as well as ever.

Eyewitness Tells of Lincoln Assassination in Ford's Theater

"An eyewitness of the assassination of Abraham Lincoln!" is a phrase that even fifty-odd years has failed to strip of interest. In an office of the old National Museum building at Washington one can find George C. Maynard, curator of technology. An atmosphere of peace pervades the place until one speaks the magic words which bring to mind that fateful night at Ford's theater in April, 1865. Then Doctor Maynard tells of what he saw.

"That evening," says Doctor Maynard, referring to the night of April 14, 1865, "I went to Ford's. As everybody knows, the play was 'Our American Cousin.' My seat was in the first gallery, on a level with and in full view of the upper right-hand box, which was reserved for President Lincoln and his party.

"The occasion was an unusual one.

Death of Patrick Gaynor Resident Clermont 47 Years

Patrick Gaynor, an old and respected resident of Clermont, died Saturday, February 5, after an illness of over 10 weeks.

Mr. Gaynor was born in county O'Meath, Ireland March 4, 1841. His parents were Thomas and Margaret Gaynor. He was married June 6, 1867 in Tullyallen, Ire and to Anna Magrana, who is still living. They came to America in September of the same year, and in 1874 moved to Clermont, where they have since lived. He was supervisor for 20 years in succession, a position he filled honorably and well.

There are six living children. Patrick Gaynor of Niagara Falls, Mrs. Frank E. Stein of Olean, Joseph Gaynor of Clermont, Mary Gaynor of Pittsburg, Julia Gaynor of Smethport and Henry Gaynor of Clermont, all of whom, with the exception of Patrick were at his bedside when the end came.

Mr. Gaynor was a man of splendid character highly esteemed by all who knew him, one who will be greatly missed in his church and his community. His last words spoken to Father Dougherty, as he administered the sacrament: "Father, I am not afraid to die," showed his unfaltering trust, his pure faith, even unto the end.

The funeral services were held Tuesday morning at St. Sabinas church in Clermont Father Dougherty officiating, the remains were brought to Smethport. Tuesday where they were laid to rest in St. Elizabeth's cemetery.

"A Passing Show" At Lyceum Theater A Roaring Success

It Was a Jim Dandy Show From Start to Finish and Everyone Present Heartily Enjoyed Themselves---Round After Round of Applause and the Clapping of the Hands Such as was Never Heard Before—The Miner Will Give a Brief Mentioning of the Different Ones Who Took Part—The High School Athletic Association was Much Benefited and Desire to Thank the Public for the Patronage.

"A Passing Show" given Monday evening under the direction of Miss Anna Lilyan Dunkle for the benefit of the High School Athletic Association was one of marked success from an entertainment stand point and also financially for which the association desires to thank each one through The Miner for their kind assistance. The Lyceum was packed to overflowing with people and the players were accorded an enthusiastic welcome to the very end.

The first number "Marriage of Tom Thumb" made the hit of the evening, the 50 or more of small children who represented the bride and groom and their relatives and guests were appropriately attired, as grown ups, and every child, even those who were little more than babies did exactly as they had been trained to do under the skillful hand of Miss Anna Lilyan Dunkle who worked incessantly with the little ones in her charge. The tiny bride and groom, Audine Masser and Billy Cleve and were adorable, also the smiling cupid, Betty Long who sat upon a raised dais with uplifted bow and arrow in her hands and looking as pretty as a little fairy that one might picture in a book that one has oft times seen, all to the eye a very pretty setting and most impressive. Both the dancing numbers of Miss Norma Mitchell and Geraldine McLoughlin who entertained the wedding guests were exceedingly graceful and they both received the approval of the house.

The tiny ushers and master of ceremonies in their dress suits were as dignified as befitted their important positions and, the minister, James Hockinburg was a grave reverened gentlemen who understood full well what a responsibility he bore. After the ceremony the happy pair left the stage, followed by the guests hurling showers of confetti.

The second number "Dance of the Giddy Girls" was a very pretty musical number consisting of singing and dancing. Francis Taylor and William Gallup were the soloists. The girls—Gladys Nourse, Harriet Herzog, Maxine Sasse, Alene McCarthy, Katheryn Hungerford, Marion Apple. The men—Paul Karlan, John Hamilton, Gerald Denning, Leonard Curran, Halsey Allison and Fred Heinline. All of those taking part were good dancers, the girls very attractive and the numbers received much applause.

The third number "1921" Convention of Old Maids' was amusing and kept the audience with their handkerchiefs over their mouths more than half of the time. Most of the parts were taken by well known and prominent men in the town's affairs, their costumes were ludicrous in the extreme, and the number was full of amusing climaxes and situations. The bride, Miss Ruth Jones, looked just too cute for anything. She made an awful lot of enemies last night for just these few Old Maids who were upon the stage. One bewitching Old Maid had

MISS DOROTHY EASTMAN ASSISTED.

We find through items printed in the Philadelphia Inquirer, the name of Miss Dorothy Eastman of Smethport who assisted in an afternoon tea talk which was given at the Ampler School of Horticulture for Women, at the school by J. L. Doss and was under the personal direction of Miss Elizabeth Langdon Lee last Friday afternoon. The school was in attendance and among those who received mention were Miss Eleanor Fullerton, Miss Edith Diehl, Miss Swing and Miss Dorothy Eastman who is a well known Smethport girl, who went to High School here and graduated with the class of 1918.

STOLE HALF BARREL CIDER

Up in Eldred, Pa., there is a true story going around about a man in that town who has been preaching temperance for the last ten years and leading everyone to believe he was a total abstainer an above repreach when it came to hitting up a little 4 1-2 per cent, Bay Rum and Vanilla etc., that most of them are partaking of when it is impossible to get anything else, but—some well known young men in that town made up their minds to inspect the old man's cellar and in doing so, ran on to a half barrel of good old cider that had an awful kick. After they had stolen the barrel and taken it to another part of the town and got gloriously drunk, they all began to dance and prance doing the Bunny hug, and the turkey twist and the amble bample schottische and several other well known toe glides, they were all sick and it took them the most part of last week to get back into old time form, suitable to take three squares a day. Of course the old man has found it out. If anything developes further The Miner will print the full story next week.

Yeggs Knock Top Off Can of Nitro-Glycerine to Get Pint

Men Who Pried Open Chest Holding 200 Sticks of Dynamite are Safe Blowers, Burgess Surmises.

Kane, Pa., Feb. 7.—Burglars risked their lives Sunday night to steal one pint of nitroglycerine and two large sticks of dynamite from the magazine of the American Glycerine company in this village. Burgess James F. Wood says he believes the expolsive was stolen by safe blowers.

The burglars forced the heavy sheet iron door of the magazine and knocking the top from a five gallon can of glycerine, poured off a pint of the stuff. Then a chest containing more than 100 sticks of dynamite was pried open and two of the sticks taken. That the theft was accomplished without blowing up the magazine is regarded as extraordinary by the officers of the company.

Kane police Monday were searching for three strangers who were seen in the business section of the town Sunday.

Seven Automobiles Are Lost in Eldred Fire

Rooming House Damaged When Barn Near Central Hotel Burns—Considerable Damage Done.

Eldred, Pa., Feb. 7.—One cow and seven automobiles were destroyed in a fire, which started last Sunday a. m. consumed a barn in the rear of the Central hotel and owned by B. W. Rice. Efforts of the fire department saved the hotel and other buildings near the barn. Mr. Rice estimates his loss at $5,000.

Considerable damage was done to a rooming house near the barn, belonging to Mrs. Emma Johnson. The firemen worked herically but could not stem the tide for a while, owing to a high wind. We have not earned whether the loss was covered by insurance or not.

Metternich's Egotism.

Instances of Metternich's self-satisfaction are everywhere in his autobiography and his private letters; one could almost be persuaded that the great Austrian statesman and diplomat was quite fond of himself. "I judge of the Revolution more truly than most men who have been in the midst of it," he writes. "I have to meet the German ministers, they expect me as a Messiah." "Fain's memoirs of the year 1813 are worth reading—they contain my history as well as Napoleon's." "The public journals, which do not usually pass me over, follow me step by step." "As an instance of how right as such is acknowledged by the majority of people, I may mention the thorough confidence shown in me by all parties." In a letter describing his daughter Hermione he says, "She is very like my mother; therefore, possesses some of my charm"—Kansas City Star.

Learn to Know Words Well.

Guesswork didn't make Demosthenes or Cicero or Shakespeare a word master. As one who has given his best efforts to teach men the right use of words, says: "Milton, mighty magician of majestic prose, under whose wonderful touch words became charmed and electrified; Flaubert, who believed that there was one and only one best word with which to express a given idea; De Quincey, with his weird power over words, and Lincoln, of simple Saxon speech—these illustrious men were assiduous in their study of words." For that matter, study words carefully if only to increase your conversational power. The greater your knowledge of words, the wider your range of thought will be and the easier you will find it to converse on any subject.—H. Addington Bruce in Chicago Daily News.

HAUL ON UNIMPOVED ROADS

Average Cost Per Ton Mile Estimated at 22.7 Cents—Average Haul Was 9.4 Miles.

In 1906 the bureau of statistics of the department of agriculture deduced an average cost per ton mile of 22.7 cents based upon replies from inquiries sent to about 2,800 county correspondents. The average haul reported was 9.4 miles. Since at this time less than 8 per cent of the roads in this country were improved, these figures indicate the average cost of hauling on unimproved roads.

FARMERS' "MUD TAX" HEAVY

Slogan Adopted by Good Roads Advocates of Alabama in Campaign for Needed Funds.

"The heaviest tax the farmer pays is the mud tax."

This is the slogan adopted by the good roads advocates of Alabama in their campaigns to put across a 12-year $50,000,000 road-building program. The farmers were shown that good roads would benefit them in a dollars-and-cents way, besides bringing them many advantages which they never had before.

Like the Balky Mule.

Like the balky mule, the almighty dollar refuses to move where mud and mire constitute the road from field to farm and from farm to market.

The Best Medicine.

Two miles of oxygen three times a day. This is not only the best, but cheap and pleasant to take. It suits all ages and constitutions. It is patented by infinite wisdom, sealed with the signet divine. It cures cold feet, hot heads, pale faces, feeble lungs, and bad tempers. If two or three take it together it has still more striking effect. It has often been known to reconcile enemies, settle matrimonial quarrels, and bring reluctant parties to a state of double blessedness. This medicine never fails. Spurious compounds are found in large towns; but get into the country lanes, among green fields, or on the mountain top, and you have it in perfection as prepared in the great laboratory of nature.—Dr. Guy Hinsdale in Good Housekeeping.

What a Cold Garage Does to Your Car

BETWEEN trips let your car stand in a WASCO-Heated Garage—kept at constant temperature by the WASCO Automatic Regulator. The warm air envelopes the car—reaches every nook and corner—melts off the snow and ice—thaws the frost out of the varnish—warms all the metal parts—keeps oil and grease in working condition, preventing scored cylinders and burned out bearings. There's no chance of frozen radiator, cracked water jacket or broken water pump.

Storage batteries work at a disadvantage when cold—they will not take a full charge, and consequently suffer greatly from overwork; they also are much more likely to become ruined by freezing.

With the garage warmed, you enjoy taking the same care of the lubrication and adjustment of the car as you do in the summer time. And your car starts easily.

The self-regulating WASCO Hot Water Heating System requires attention only once a day.

Any handy man can set it up—no expensive steam-fitter required. Costs less than street car fare for fuel.

WASCO is also used for heating offices, stores, cottages, etc.

CHIC TAFFETA DANCE FROCK

In all respects like a gown our grandmothers might have danced demurely in is this taffeta frock with tiny taffeta ruchings, for it has the pointed bodice and shoulder line of the sixties.

METALLIC BEAD BAG FASHION

Accessory Dear to the Heart of Every Woman, Now Requires Careful Consideration.

The bead bags have taken several new turns for the better. One is the metallic bead bag, the beads, though colored, showing the metallic glitter. These draw up for the most part on beaded strings. The small "dinner bag," just large enough to swing from one finger, is particularly good in these beads. Small taffeta bags, partly beaded, are attractive in color, and a novelty is a navy taffeta with flame-colored stitching, entirely covered by a fringe of blue beads, repeating the design in flame beads. Hanna mocha is making some very stunning suit bags.

Every woman who has ever had one will sing the praises of a black evening gown. Nothing gives such satisfactory service and admits of so many color contrasts. By having half a dozen different color changes for the black gown you get the same effect as you would with half a dozen different colored gowns. You can do this with your fan, the single ostrich plume on a tortoise bracelet being the newest thing in this line. Flame, orange and jade, with the softer colors, such as orchid, ciel blue and pale buff combined, are most popular. Uncurled ostrich for the spread fan, sometimes with the curled tip, is preferred to the whole curled plume. Or you can get your color note in your beads, for right now the cut amber and a brilliant red bakelite beads are being worn extensively. Bracelets, too, are colorful, and if one is not enough, you can wear three all at once. Snake bracelets studded with colored brilliants add life to a somber ensemble, as do the ivory bangles with colored enamel decorations.

TO USE BATAVIA IN HATS

Material Promises to Be Given Favor in Spring Millinery—Comes in Colors.

Batavia promises to be one of the best materials for use in spring hats, for, according to the bulletin of the Retail Millinery Association of America, it is employed in a variety of effective ways. Ombre batavia, shading from one color to another, is regarded as especially attractive. Batavia also comes in a printed Paisley effect, combining the colorings of the Paisley shawl. It is also seen embroidered in all-over scroll and floral designs. Developed in conventional patterns, it is much used for tams, draped turbans and off-the-face models, which are trimmed simply with bows of gros-grain ribbon.

According to the bulletin batavia is combined with Milan, leghorn and peanut straws. It is used to face brims, and the ombre material is favored for trimmings in the form of twisted bands or of large bows with fringed ends. Batavia hats are trimmed with unusually attractive wreaths of flowers and grasses chosen to carry out the color schemes of the various models. Oddly-shaped straw pins, which in some cases have centers of glistening beads, are also used to decorate them.

Care of Silk Waists.

White silk shirts and waists washed in warm suds, rinsed in water of the same temperature, wrapped in a bath towel to absorb the extra moisture, and then pressed with a warm iron, will not turn yellow for a long time. Avoid exposure to strong light while drying and really hot irons, for both tend to turn white silk yellow.

Is Marriage a Success?

WOMAN, TEN YEARS MARRIED, TELLS GIRLS TO WED, EVEN IF IT TURNS OUT BADLY

To The Editor of The Miner:

GIRLS, get married! Even if your marriage turns out badly, you are better off than if you had stayed single. I know half a dozen women whose first marriages were failures. They got rid of their first husbands easily and have made much better marriages tha nthey could have made if they stayed single. Their new husbands idolize them. One of my women acquaintances who has been married four times is the most petted wife I know.

My own marriage has turned out well. Everything seemed against it. I was well known in my profession, and when I married I was making as much money as my husband. We were of different religions. He drank. But he had one big quality. He was generous. Since our marriage he has refused to let me work. Girls, be sure the man you pick is generous. Look out for a tightwad. If a man is liberal with his money he is sure to be easy to get along with. Liberal men in money matters do not annoy their wives in the other concerns of life.

Three girls of my age, better known than myself and in our professional group, advised me against marriage. They told me to wait until I got a man who had or made more money, ro who had more of a reputation. They are still waiting for such a man, and they are the most discontented women I know. They would be glad now to get the kind of a man I got ten years ago. A career has not compensated them for the satisfaction of a husband's companionship.

Marriage has improved my husband As I said, he was generous. He liked to give me things. This made him ambitious and he has worked himself up.

But even if my marriage had turned out badly, I would have been better off than if I had neglected the opportunity to become married. I met new friends through my husband. If I had divorced him at any time I know many of his men friends would have courted me. There is something thing about the magic letters "Mrs." that gives a woman an added attraction in the eyes of men. There is a middle-aged widow in our apartment house that has more men taking her to theaters and dances than all the flappers and unmarried young women.

My children are no hindrance to my free life. His mother and my mother take care of them in the evenings when we want to go out. I get more fresh air, expend less nervous energy and look younger than any unmarried woman of my age. I have taught the children to respect me from their babyhood and they give me no trouble now. My unmarried sisters, who have set ambitious standards for the kind of men they would consider marrying—and who affect to displise my husband's income—look older than I do and get less attention from other men than I.

I often wonder what men get married for. They take heavy financial responsibilities. They mortgage their free time to one woman. What a wife's clothes cost them would enable them to enjoy expensive amusements, extensive travel and better surroundings generally. Then, too, a bachelor, no matter what his age or social position, gets more attention socially than a married man. Children, too, give less pleasure and service to a father than a mother.

But for a woman, marriage is undoubtful a success. It raises their position in the community. In most cases, it releases them from the danger of daily necessary work and responsibility. It brings them more attention from other men. Even when incompatibility intervenes, alimony provides separate support without work. In such cases, it also provides a more strategic position for a new and better marriage.

For what kind of woman is marriage not success? All the neglected wives I know are neat women, excessively neat. The kind of temperament which expresses itself in neatness is concerned with little things. Nothing irritates a man more than to have a wife bother about little things.

A wife who in satisfied if her husband is generous in money matters, and who is considerate about little things, does not get on his nerves. She becomes an agreeable habit with him. Man is a creature of habit in marriage as in other things. Don't try to change his habits, interfere with his smoking, his occasional cocktail, his desire to be comfortable and at ease in the house, and you will succeed at the easiest and most natural profession for woman—Marriage.

EDITORIAL.

Education, time and an increased number of women in our law-making bodies will lead eventually to better balanced legislation.

There is no way of improving a place so much as by encouraging good merchants, good schools and good people to settle among you, and this cannot be done unless you spend your money at home.

The wide-awake and successful business man is now telling the public through the columns of the Miner about what he has by way of bargains in winter stock. It does not pay the merchant to carry over these goods to another season but it does pay the customer to buy them.

The Standard Oil Company has again started the working men of his employe which constitutes some 12,000 on their downward path by cutting away 10 per cent of their hard earnings. John D. surely needs the money and very badly too. He is looking for another big headline in the newspapers of his wonderful charitable giving heart of a donation of $60,000 or more where it is much less needed and not appreciated, as it would be by the men who are slaving away 10 hours a day on one of his old oil wagons to earn a salary that is way low and not benefitting at all to the high living of these times. The first man who has to take the cut is the under dog—and why? Just because his hands are tied and he's got to do it or starve. And how about his family and the little children? In some cases they haven't even clothes enough to go to a school with. But that matters not with John D., his chins can be toasted and a good warm bed to sleep in. Why care. Mere trifle.

THE SMALL DEALER

In the agitation over the high cost of living no one should be betrayed into unjust criticism of the small dealers in food supplies, the marketmen and grocers and the producemen with whom the housekeepers individually deal, whoever the culprits are, it is not they. For the speculator who deliberately corners a food supply in a time like the present in the hope of reaping exhorbant profits there can be nothing but contempt. For the middleman who utilizes the legitimate increases there is no excuse, although we suspect that he is being over-criticized at the present moment. But there has not been the slightest evidence that we have seen that the smaller dealer is in any way a party to conspiracy to raise prices any higher than they are now. He is paying more for his goods and he necessarly has to ask more for them. He is a friend and brother and the increased prices of the past year or more tend to decrease his business, and doubtless no one will be gladder than he when they reach to a degree where the working man will once more have a chance to put his little bit in the bank as heretofore. It certainly will be a godsend to him and his family.

THE SMILE IN THE MIRROR.

The world is like a looking glass; if you smile in it, it smiles back; if you frown, it frowns.

You may here it said that one of the conditions of life you cannot make or alter is environment—that it is fixed, inflexible, and that you are its slave. I think this a mistake.

He who thinks the world is full of good people and kindly blessings is much richer than he who thinks the contrary. Each man's imagination largely peoples the world for himself. Some live in a world peopled with princes of the royal blood; some in a world of pauperism, crime and privation. The choice is yours.

Psychology has pretty well established the theory that ghosts are creations of the subjective mind—and trouble-finding is very like ghost-seeing. You see frightful goblins in life, which, if properly traced, will be found to begin and end in your own mind. Refuse to believe in them and they cease to exist.

A melancholy thought that fixes itself upon one's mind ought to have as prompt doctoring as a pronounced physical disease. Fate gives to the man who whines just what he expects. Disappointment sardonically meets him at every turn. Misfortune ever lurks in his shadow. The human whine is a single-call to a thousand and one little demons of distress and disaster, which mock and lash, hinder and dishearten.

Life without trials, small or great, is impossible. We must meet and conquor them, or let them conquor us. But we need not waste our strength in borrowing troubles or in going half way to meet them.

HARDING FOR NATIONAL UNITY.

The message sent by Warren G. Harding to the people of the south is one of the most momentous utterances he has indulged since he was nominated at Chicago last June. It is the voice of the next president of the United States, about to assume what an eastern paper describes as "the truly and awful task of making a program and of finding men to execute it." Some parts of this program have been outlined, and among them is that of uniting the nation into one harmonious whole, industrially, socially and politically. His proposal to the people of the south thus takes on a high quality of significance. He writes on a high quality to them.

I want to be instrumental in establishing that complete concord of union which I hold to be essential to the American fulfillment. I realize how the political solidarity of the south followed the unfortunate days of the Civil war. I know how that solidarity has been encouraged, and I think I understand the desire to break it on the other hand. I believe most cordially in prospering America first.

Ours is the best market in the world because we are the largest consumers and the ablest to buy. There isn't the slightest excuse for a sectional line in America. We are one people, with one flag, and it is folly to allow long-time prejudices to stand in the way of the fullest understanding and the utmost cordiality of relationship.

National unity and concord will be more easily established when it is, understood that one section of the country can not permanently prosper at the expense of another. Some inequalities will always exist, because of the unequal distribution of the favors of nature, but if the people agree that the general bounty which has made the United States the wealthiest and most powerful of all nations is to be shared by all on even terms, the benefit will be enjoyed by all. It is this very interdependence that has welded the union so firmly together. Our land is not held together by pressure from without.

Whatever sacrifice may attend a relaxation of the political solidarity of the south, assuming such a thing to be a sacrifice, will be more than compensated through the freer communication that will be opened as a result. Mr. Harding says it is not merely a republican ambition he expresses. Neither is there ground for scolding the southern people on account of the position they have taken and held so long. Conditions have cleared the way for them to strengthen this position, however, and without sacrifice of any of the traditions of the land. An administration that begins with a plea for national unity and the intention of prospering America first, will not be stigmatized as either partisan or parochial.—Omaha Bee.

Obituary.

HOMER S. BARNES

Homer S. Barnes, the only child of Darious and Fannie Slater Barnes, was born in Plates, Pa., October 6, 1885. After a few years in the home schools he attended Grand River Institute at Austinburg, O., and later gave two years to the study of law.

For several years he held the position of principal in the Plates schools he served two terms as justice of the peace; was for some time secretary to the county board of poor directors; traveled for Joseph Stern, of Erie for fourteen years; served as inspector on government work during the war, and was always, from young manhood, acting in some public capacity.

He joined the Girard Lodge of Masons and went to the top of the Order, being a member of the Knights Templar and a Past Potentate in the the Order of the Mystic Shrine at the time of his death. He was also a member of the Odd Fellows lodge and a capable and faithful member in every position held in either order.

His business ile and his lodge affiliations combined to make him well known over a wide territory and all who knew him found him to be courteous, kindly, and companionable with stanch loyalty to his friends a marked trait in his character.

On April 4, 1888, he married Miss Carrie F. Caufman, who survives him, and they resided in the old Barnis homestead where death came to him, following a stroke of paralysis, January 17, 1921, when he was sixty-four years of age.

The services at the home and the burial service in the Plates cemetery, held Thursday afternoon, were conducted by Lake Erie Lodge F. and A. M. No. 347. This was accord with his oft expressed wish, he preferring the simple grandeur of the Blue Lodge ceremonies to any other and desiring that members of the lodge in which he took first vows as a Mason should perform the last service for him.—The Cosmopolite Herald.

LAIRYMEN'S LEAGUE HEADQUARTERS NOW IN UTICA.

The Dairymen's League moved its offices during last week to Utica, N. Y., and is now busy in its new headquarters, with a large force handling the correspondence and business of 90,000 farmers. It was formerly at 303 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

The Executive Committee of the league will hold most of its sessions at the new headquarters and all of the departments and clerks will be quartered in the new building, with the exception of a co-operative sales office, the Contract Department, and a Dairymen's League News Advertising office, which will still retain offices in New York City.

In addition to the Executive Committee among the men and departments operating henceforth from the new headquarters at Utica will be: The Legal Department in charge of J. D. Miller; the Secretary's Department in charge of Albert Manning; the Treasurer's Department, headed by Bruce M. Kilpatrick; the Cooperative Department in charge of W. W. Hovey; Department of Organization in charge of T. E. Milliman; and the Dairymen's League News, headed by E. R. Eastman.

All mail for the Dairymen's League except that which relates to contracts and relations with dealers, should be directed to the Utica office. That which has to do with the milk dealers should be addressed to the Dairymen's League, 303 Fifth Avenue, New York.

SHE DIDN'T KNOW HER HOST WHO GAVE HER LIFT ON DOAD

Struggling and slipping along a road to Paoli, near Pittsburg last Monday from her home on the General Wayne farm, Mrs. Waldo Vander Veur was overtaken by a touring car. A pleasant voice asked if she would accept a lift.

Mrs. Vander Veur accepted the ride and chatted with the big cheerful-looking man in the car all the way to the Paoli postoffice, where she alighted.

"Delighted; and thank you for your pleasant conversation" replied the cheerful-looking person, who shortly afterward took a train for Lancaster, Harrisburg and points in this direction.

"Who's your friend?" inquired an acquaintance of Mrs. Vander Veur.

"Don't know his name but he was a very pleasant spoken man and very gentlemanly," was the reply.

And then the friend, who had seen and recognized the license number of the car, 77, informed her that the "pleasant-spoken" man was Governor Sproul.

LITTLE THOUGHTLETS

If you owe a debt pay it. If you owe a grudge forget it.

Anybody can cut prices, but it takes brains to make a better article.

"The sweetness never equals the bitterness of poor quality."

A man's heart must be in his skill and a man's soul in his craftmanship.

The industrious man is light-hearted the man who works is the happy man.

You should be very careful, you knew, you might get interested in your work and let your pipe go out.

The greatness of man, therefore, lies not in the coat he wears, but in the character he bears.

Wise men are educated by reason, men of less understanding by Experience, the most ignorant by Necessity.

How lucky it is that the man in the moon is blind.

Selected Verses

OPPORTUNITY

With doubt and dismay you are smitten,
You think there's no chance for you, son?
Why, the best books haven't been written,
The best race hasn't been run;
The best score hasn't been made yet;
The best song hasn't been sung;
The best tune hasn't been played yet,
Cheer up, for the world is young!

No chance? Why, the world is just eager,
For things that you ought to create;
Its store of true wealth still is meager,
Its needs are incessant and great;
It years for more power and beauty,
More laughter and love and romance
More loyalty, labor and duty.
No chance? Why, there's nothing but chance!

For the best verse hasn't been rhymed yet;
The best house hasn't been planned;
The highest peak hasn't been climbed yet;
The mightiest rivers aren't spanned
Don't worry and fret, faint-hearted,
The chances have just begun;
For the best jobs haven't been started.
The best work hasn't been done.

BASKETBALL NOTES

The High School of Smethport journeyed to Westbrook and met defeat by a score of 25 to 45. Everyone reports a good game and everyone got their money's worth. The ball was played a-t of the time and got so much body contact as is usual in a game where the court is comparatively small.

The High School Girls basket ball team will play a game this coming Friday night with the Johnsburg High School team in Lyceum Hall. The girls are playing a good brand of ball and practiced faithfully for this contest and worthy of your patronage.

The Town Team of Smethport journeyed to Johnsburg last Saturday night and received a good trouncing. The score was 63 to 9. About half of the team could not make the trip owing to sickness and subs were used in their places.

The "Bucktails" played last night in Bradford against the Y. M. C. A. team there.

KANE 25; "BUCKTAILS" 24.

This game was a good one with the score tied at least three times. But the "Bucktails" were not there in the finishing up that is necessary in basket ball playing. With a good comfortable lead in the first half it looked like the boys were going to put over a win but alas they fell in the last half and the Kane boys carried away the bacon as mentioned above. Go at the game a little harder and more practicing and better condition and you will succeed.

—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barber have moved into their new residence on Bank Street.

—The supper for St. Luke's Choir was held Tuesday evening of this week.

—Miss Astrid Johnson the popular assistant of Dr. Livermore left Wednesday for Port Allegany where she will be operated on in the hospital there for appendicitis. Mrs. George Howe will be her attending nurse.

—Mrs. E. A. Studholme, president of the Travelers' Club and Mrs. James Nellis, delegate, left Monday morning for Franklin where they will attend a meeting of the North Western Feedration of Women's club's.

Patrick Gaynor of Niagara Falls; Mrs. Frank E. Stein of Olean; Mary Gaynor of Pitsburg; Joseph and Henry Gaynor of Clermont and Mrs. Anna Gaynor of Clermont was in town Tuesday, accompaning the remains of Patrick Gaynor who was laid at rest in St. Elizabeth's cemetery.

—At the meeting of the Traveler's Club on last Saturday afternoon, much interest was manifested in the papers read by Masdames' Rose Herzog Ellsworth and Charles McKean. Mrs. Pomeroy gave selections from the Old Masters. Mrs. Edwin Bouton and Miss Harriet Herzog sang in a delightful manner.

His Abdomen Torn By Shotgun's Load

WARREN HUNTER ACCIDENTLY WOUNDS HIMSELF WHILE CLUBBING FOX.

Warren, Pa., Feb. 6.—LeRoy Dove, ex-service man and athlete is in the Warren General Hospital with a charge of shot in his abdomen. Wounded Saturday, when he attempted to club a fox, he was not given medical attention until four hours after the accident.

Dove was hunting on the Grunder farm near here, when he shot a fox. Calling to a companion, he ran to the animal, which attempted to flee. Clubbing his 12 gauge double barreled gun he struck at the fox. When the butt of the gun struck the ground, the load was discharged, practically all the heavy shot lodging in his abdomen just below the lower ribs.

Unable to scream for help because of the gaping wound, the young man fell on his uninjured side, and managed to fire both barrels of the gun, he told physicians. He is believed to have loaded the gun, and then discharged it by pounding on the ex posed firing pin, with part of his hunting equipment. Both hammers and the stock of the weapon were broken off when the butt struck the ground.

When his companion found him, Dove was still conscious. he former picked him up, and carried him to a nearby farm house, where he summoned a doctor by phone. Dove's chances of recovery are poor. He was well known here as a star ball player.

JAG PREVENTS STUBENVILLE JAIL DELIVERY

14 Returned to Cells After Ripping Floor and Picking Lock.

Steubenville, O., Feb. 5.—Escaping from the "bull pen," 14 prisoners Saturday morning fired the Jefferson County jail here while trying to remove 260 quarts of confiscated whisky from a cell on the second floor.

Intoxicated after removing and drinking several quarts, the prisoners made about the corridors singing and shouting until they attracted the attention of City patrolmen Harry Fink and Frank Bell, who called Deputy Sheriff William Yost, residing in the jail residence. The Deputy Sheriff, rushing into the jail, extinguished the fire, then put the prisoners back into their cells.

Authorities today believe the finding of the whisky by the prisoners prevented a wholesale jail delivery.

After midnight when guards had made their last rounds, the occupants of the "bull pen," a spacious cell set aside for persons chayerd with minor offenses, ripped up the floor of the cell and one after anoter slid down a drain pipe into the women's department. There were no occupants in the department. The men then picked the lock leading from that department into the main corridor tier, where the whisky was stored. —(Pittsburgh Gazette.

BODY OF YOUTH, MISSING 18 MONTHS SOUGHT IN WELL

Canton, O., Feb. 5.—Twelve men, headed by John Dyer began work last Friday digging out an abandoned well on a farm north of Massillon in an effort to find the body of his son, Robert Dyer, aged 19, who disappeared 18 months ago. A nation wide search has been conducted for the boy and the parents believe he may have been murdered and his body placed in the old well as pieces of cloth and bits of human hair have been pumped from the well.—Pittsburgh Gazette.

MORE COLD COMING SAYS JOHN JOHNNYJOHN

Gowanda, Feb. 5.—The groundhog could not see his shadow, as he came forth, according to custom, Wednesday as the sky was dull and gray over Gowanda. So according to tradition, the most of the winter is over.

However, John Johnnyjohn, the old Indian weather sharp was a bit skeptical. He gave a shrug and said: "More cold coming—look for a cold, dry spring."

TRIES FOUR TIMES TO TAKE HIS LIFE

PRISONER USES BELT, NECKTIE, UNDERSHIRT IN EFFORT TO STRANGLE HIMSELF

Olean, Feb. 4.—First he tried to hang himself with his belt, but the belt broke. Then he sought to strangle himself with a necktie. He was discovered just intime to save his life. Then he made a noose of his undershirt, but the undershirt was rather the worse for wear and would not stand the strain. His fourth attempt at suicide was the swallowing of a dozen pills. They made him deathly sick, but failed to kill him.

Ray Carter was the man who thus gave the staton house police at Olean a sleepless night.

Carter was arretsed on a charge of intoxication. At 2 o'clock in the morning one of the police station officials found him strangling in his cell. He had tied one end of his belt about a bar in the door of his cell and made a noose of the other end.

His other attempts at self-destruction followed. The pills he took were some, he said, of a kind given him to relieve pain that he has had at intervals since he underwent an operation. Carter says he has no home.

It was said he made attempts to commit suicide in this city when he was here seven years ago.

WHISKEY AT RIGHT PRICE, DIES WITHOUT REGRETS

Lexington, Ky., Feb.5.—The grace of a happy death was afforded the head of a well known and picturesque family of this region, according to an account given by another elderly Kentuckian who had been his close friend for 50 years.

"The Colonel," said the narrator, "knew that he had to go and met death, as he met everything itself death, as he had met everything in life, without flinching. Just before he breathed his last, he recognized me standing at the foot of the bed, and, speaking in a voice wonderfully clear and strong for so ill a man, said:

"Henry, I die without regrets. Whiskey was selling at $22 a quart in Lexington today—the first time in my life that it has been quoted at a price commensurate with its value."

DEER ARE BEING PLACED IN ELK COUNTY

Traveling Game Protector Henry B. Hilton, of Punxsutawney and Protector Zufall, Davis, Kelly and Scarder are engaged in catching deer in the Moeser Park in Clearfield county near Westover this week. The animals caught will be liberated in Elk and Jefferson counties.

The Mosser Park sustains a herd of deer and every year the newcomers add so greatly to the number of deer in the herd that they are so numerous for their range, and Mrs. Mosser sells a certain number of them to the State Game Commission. All the game protectors have to do is to capture them.

This is done by building a huge wire trap on fenced off area and driving the animals within the enclosure, then they are captured and shipped to whichever points they are destined to be liberated.—Ridgway Advocate.

300 BARRELS OF REAL BEER POURED INTO RIVER

Olean Brewery Refused to Pay For Reducing its Strength.

Olean, Feb. 5.—The Allegany river should have had a hangover Saturday.

It packed nearly 300 barrels of four per cent. beer from Olean Saturday. Now it is carrying "the big treat" to the Ohio the Mississippi and the Gulf.

The beer was not included in a sale of the Olean Brewing company's property to an ice company. The officers of the brewing company did not care to take a chance of losing money in reducing the beer to one half of one per cent., and offering it for sale. The beverage was poured into the stream under the direction of a federal agent. The river swallowed the load and flowed onward without a stagger.

Halts When Fired On After Chase At Olean

George Krenock, Wanted For Alleged Abandonment, Is Taken by Chief Dempsey

Olean, Feb. 4.—Arrested after a chase up Homer Hill and halted by a bullet fired into the ground not far from his feet, George Krenock, 23 years old, wanted on a charge of alleged abandonment was arrested here Friday. He had been sought by Olean police for the last two years. He his charged with abandoning his wife and baby.

Police Chief John C. Dempsey called at the home of a relative of the man wanted, it was said, and Krenock went out the rear door and ran up the hill. The chief chased him and fired into the ground when he saw the young man drawing away. Kenrock then gave himself up. The prisoner will be taken to the county jail, without a preliminary hearing here.

WHY JUDGES SHOULD VISIT PRISONS

Lord Phillimore, late lord justice of appeal, olds that it is part of the duty of judges to visit prisons from time to time. "In this way," he said to an interviewer, "a judge gets to know what prison is like, and what the punishment he metes out entails to those he has to sentence.

Lord Phillmore has been on the treadmill and has seen men working on it. The suggestion recently put to an American judge, that judges on their elevation should serve a term of imprisonment by way of apprenticeship, he characterises as too topsy-turvy to be considered.—Continental Edition of the London Mail.

FIND SKELETON OF HUGE MASTODON.

Elsbee Ariz., Feb. 6.—Discovery of a skeleton of a mastodon near Benson, 60 miles notrhwest of here was reported Saturday by Dr. Gidley of the Smithsonian Institution, in charge of a party that has for several days been uncovering the bones of prehsitorc animals.

The tusks of the mastodon measure more than six feet in length, Dr. Gidley announced. He said that the remains of a sea turtle about 7 feet long had been uncovered near the bones of the bastodon.

Improved Roads

PERMANENT ROADS ARE BEST

Although Apparently Expensive at First, They Add Greatly to Value of Farm Lands.

When one is figuring the cost of improving the public roads consideration should be given to the increased value of the lands located in the section where the roads have been permanently improved.

In every case where roads have been put in a permanently good condition, the value of the farms has increased to a point that the increased value would more than pay the cost of the improvement. Permanent roads do seem high-priced in the beginning but one should figure that there will be small future outlay for upkeep.

The dirt road has a bad reputation every place it is found and even improving does not make it a permanent road, for it is continually needing work. It is a never-ending job to keep a dirt road in even passable condition. It is like doing the chores on the farm, they must be gone over again and again and still remain to be looked after. The properly graded road, of course, is better than one poorly made, but at its best it is a continual worry and expense. Where very steep hills are on the roadway, ditches should be run off along the side to carry the water into the side ditch and not allow it to run down to the bottom, carrying the soil with it and making a pool where it stops.

Much of the movement now for improved roads is for permanent roads. And, as stated above, these permanent roads although quite expensive at first, add much to the value of the lands and to the reputation of the farming districts. It has been much easier to populate a new farming section when it is known that permanent roads are coming soon or are already installed. A farm always sells better when the buyer can approach it on a substantial roadway. Those who are advocating good roads and permanent roads may not all live to see their ambitions satisfied, but they are starting a movement that will carry on to the coming generations and will be a blessing for those who live after the present improved road agitation.

SUPERIOR SYSTEM OF ROADS

In Every Section of Country Work Is Progressing Favorably on Many Projects.

The time is rapidly passing when the bad roads of America can be pointed out as a reproach. In every section of the country work is in progress to give the United States a system of roads which will compare favorably with those of other countries. Roads are being built at 2,985 different points. Fully 30,000 miles of road have been approved by the secretary of agriculture. It is estimated that this construction will cost the country nearly $400,000,000. At the end of June, 1920, the government reported that 2,116 different projects or a total of 10,000 miles of roads had been completed.—Boys' Life.

ACCESSIBILITY TO MARKETS

Farm on Paved Road Is Nearer to the City Than One Located on Impassable Highway.

The type of road over which a farmer must haul his crops determines his accessibility to markets. A farm many miles from the city, but if located on a paved road, is nearer to market than a farm separated from it by only a mile of impassable road. That is why the various reports of the United States weather bureau issued daily by the local state offices of the bureau, devote frequently their entire report to the subject of roads—a strange place you'll say to find an editorial promoting permanent highways, but it is there from time to time, nevertheless.

Streets of Glass.

In Geneva glass blocks are used to pave the streets. They are made from the refuse from the glass factories. They are pleasant to the eye and very durable.

Watch Breeding Flock.

MRS. RILEY CONTINUES VERY ILL.

information in regard to her family withheld, nor did she want her address known by the public. Her mother is Mrs. Margaret Osborn and she resides at Grafton, W. Va., which is also the home town of Mrs. Riley. Mrs. Osborn is married for the second time, which means that Mr. Osborn is Mrs. Riley's step-father.

She ate a late breakfast Saturday morning and after returning from the hearing, Chief Howe asked if she would eat some dinner but she replied in the negative. When asked if she would like some fruit she again refused, saying she did not care for anything to eat. She seemed to be extremely melancholy, which was perfectly natural considering the predicament she was in, and talked about her husband and the incidents leading up to the hold-up at the De Luca market. She said that they were very hungry on Thursday and that her husband claimed that a robbery was necessary but that she made him promise that he would do no harm to anyone if they went into the market. She did not wish to go in and take part in the hold-up she said, but he claimed he could not do the trick alone. She cried while she talked of Riley and said that he had been good to her in the past and spoke affectionately of him.

It is very evident to the police that the girl loves him, despite his criminal tendencies, but they believe firmly that the girl is not a crook, but in her husband's hands completely—in other words that she is but a victim of circumstances.

It was planned by County Detective Allison to bring her to Smethport, Saturday where she would have to wait the holding of the grand jury which convenes week of February 28.

A PASSING SHOW AT THE LYCEUM A ROARING SUCCESS

the audacity to pull out a handkerchief and wipe off her little face and mouth before he impressed upon her lips his caress. One could not blame the spinsters for being willing to try Dr. Makeover's magic elixir. The unhappy incident of turning Rotund Abigail Hobbs, (William Brownell's) dog into a weiner instead of a butterfly, did not seem to dampen the ardor of the ancient ladies, and when one of their number, Portia Olive Leftover, (Mrs. Laura Van Dusen) was turned into a man, their enthusiasm knew no bounds, and they almost annihilated the poor creature.

The last number consisting of Life Pictures, "The Roses," "Rock of Ages," and Our Flag, were most attractive and met the approval of all present. The singing of Miss Leola Davis in the second number being much appreciated.

Quirks orchestra furnished music. Mrs. Stanley was the accompanist. All those taking part deserve great credit and much more could be said if there were space. The Athletic Association cleared $165. 'Nuff ced.

PRINTED STATIONERY FOR THE FARMERS

Many farmers are adopting the plan of using printed stationery in their business correspondence. This is a good idea and we do not see why it should not meet with universal adoption. It does not cost any more and has many advantages that do not appear at a glance. How much more business-like is a nicely printed letterhead where the name and address is legially printed. There are no mistakes made in replyin through mistakes to decipher illegably written names. Now many letters from business men we get and others whose names we cannot make out, were they not printed on their letterheads. Proper names are the hardest things on earth to read unless you know them, even when written in a passing good hand.

HAS AERO ICE SLED THAT "FLIES."

A man in Peabody, Mass., by the name of David T. Jones has an Aero Ice Sled that fliesabout 100 miles an hour so it is understood. It has a 16 H. P. motor and an airplane propeller to drive it. He steers with an automobile wheel. The sled carries two passengers and its shape is much like a flat bootbm boat only much deeper and a trifle shorter. The propeller is like the one owned by Hallstrom and Heinlein and similar in appearance.

EYE WITNESS TELLS OF LINCOLN'S ASSASSINATION IN FORD'S THEATRE

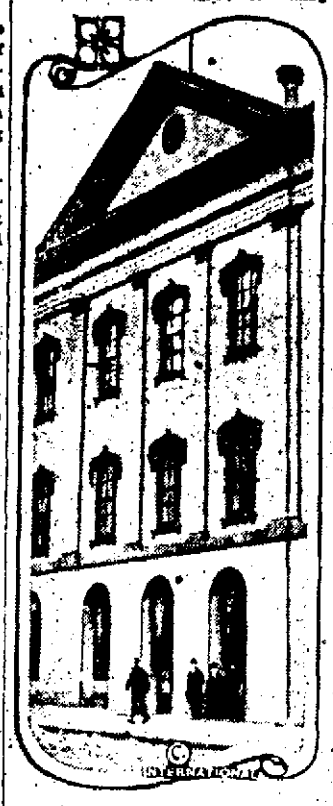
The war had come to be regarded as an interminable conflict, something



Ford's theater on Tenth street, Washington, where Lincoln was shot 20 minutes past 10 on the night of April 14, 1865. It is now used as a government office building.

which would always engulf this country. Those in the theater that night were giving vent to perhaps their first real enthusiasm that the war had actually ended. It was to be a gala night. An atmosphere of festivity pervaded the place. Also, it was Laura Keene's benefit.

"Naturally, it was a patriotic performance. I still have a small scrap of paper on which I wrote the musical program. 'The Star-Spangled Banner,' 'Red, White and Blue,' and 'Marching Along' were played, while the entire company was to have sung 'Honor to Our Soldiers,' a patriotic song of the times.

"The President and his party did not arrive before the curtain rose. It was during the dairy scene when they came in. Miss Hart, playing Georgiana, was telling an American joke to Mr. Emerson, taking the part of Dundreary, and he failed to catch the point. Twice she said to him: 'Why, can't you see it?' And he replied: 'No, I cawn't see it.' At this moment the Presidential party entered, passing around the south side of the gallery to enter the box. The play was suspended until President Lincoln was seated, the audience having risen with one accord and cheered enthusiastically. After some time Georgiana said, with emphasis: 'Well, everybody can see that,' and Dundreary drawled: 'They ought to see it, you know.'

"It was about 10:30 when the pistol shot which sent the bullet at Lincoln was fired. Booth suddenly slid down from the front of the box onto the stage and rushed diagonally across, disappearing. He caught his foot in the flag decorations and made some exclamation which I did not understand, but no such dramatic speech as has popularly been accredited to him. Had he done anything of that kind I believe he would have been mobbed before he could have escaped. As it was, J. B. Steward, a man of athletic build, sprang onto the stage and was after Booth immediately.

"There was no panic, such as a fire would have caused. The entire audience was stunned, the real significance of the tragedy coming only after several minutes. The theater people swarmed upon the stage. An officer in military uniform managed to get to the President by climbing up from the stage into the box, the door having been barred. Laura Keene came quickly through the gallery with a pitcher of water, lending an odd note to the scene with her costume and make-up. The door of the box by this time was opened and she entered.

"Intense excitement reigned, yet no lack of self-control. There seemed to be a desire to lend whatever assistance was possible, while the air was electrical with a spirit of vengeance against Booth for the crime just committed. Several people climbed over seats, I myself helping one lady thus in making her exit. Some seats were broken. Yet, withal, the people left the theater slowly and quietly. It was about ten minutes before the President was removed, followed by Mrs. Lincoln supported by two gentlemen. A crowd of people filled Tenth street.

"At that time I was a member of the military telegraph corps of the War department, being a cipher operator. I rushed to the office. Persons I met on the way were ignorant of the tragedy. At the office the news had been learned, but no details, and D. H. Bates, manager of the office, asked for particulars.

"A full force of telegraphers spent the night in the office, sending out reports of the President's condition. It was eight o'clock on the following morning before I left for my lodgings. I walked along G street. The morning was rainy, raw and cheerless. Between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets, almost in front of Epiphany church, I met a small squad of cavalry, accompanied by a few military officers and civilians on foot. The band was proceeding quietly and with an evident desire to avoid public notice. They were escorting the President's body to the White House.

"There is one other memory of that time of sorrow which I retain vividly. On the morning the President's body began the journey to Springfield it was warm, bright and altogether a day best suited to rejoicing, yet all Washington had come down town to see the funeral procession. Processions, normally, are stretched out, but this one was made as compact as possible. In the front went a detachment of cavalry, wedge shaped. Very slowly they proceeded, making their way steadily into the crowds which swarmed the streets, forcing them silently back to the curb. Carriages containing officials, instead of going single file, went three and four abreast. The horses' footfalls were the loudest sounds, while sobs punctuated the stillness of the watching multitude."

Exemplar of Land of Opportunity.

Robert Lansing, ex-secretary of state, said: "Born in the humble cabin of the Hodgensville farm, Abraham Lincoln is the national exemplar of a land of equal opportunity. His life and his career reveal the fact that the seeds of greatness nourished in the soul of even the most lowly may germinate and develop to perfection in the atmosphere and environment of America."

STORY OF LINCOLN CONTINUED NEXT WEEK—LOOK FOR IT

Eldred 29; New York Eries 26.

In one of the fastest and most hard fought games that ever was played by the famous "Spartans" was last Saturday night when they met and defeated one of the top notch teams from New York City by a score of 26 to 29. The old hall was filled with enthusiastic basket ball fans from every nearby town and Editor Ben McFall was there with his long pencil to keep the minutes on everything that was transpiring which was some and then some more. Both teams were in excellent physical condition which made the game fast and sensational to watch right down to the last minute. That the New York were masters of the game was quickly noticeable with their deceptive pass work and floor play, and each one an almost dead shot if left a minute open. The "Spartans" were there with a fighting kick from the center via Odell to Wolcott to the famous Trevor Llewelyn in about 3 and three fourths seconds to the basket. The game was in much doubt all the way through as it could been seen that they were some basketeers. Odell, Trevor Llewelyn and "Spider" Wolcott played the star game for Eldred while Wendell Llewelyn and Leo Bess did some fancy guard duty in keeping the New York's in check. "Johnny Red Face" Stark and young gentleman by the name of Ireland were in uniform as substitutes for the "Spartans."

There will be a game at Crosby at the I. O. R. M. Hall next Friday night between Crosby and Westbrook, the game is to begin at 8 o' clock. This February 11.

And on Saturday night in Eldred, they will meet the Buffalo Lincoln's for a dual. The New York Eries beat this team about three weeks ago This game should be a drawing card

FARM BUREAU PROGRAM FOR 1921.

The Executive Committee of the Farm Bureau, after having received the reports and requests from the committee of the different communities of the county adopted the following Program:

1. Dairying: Cowtesting Association. Breeders' Association. Accredited Herds. Bull Club and Purebred Sires. Better Butter Campaign.

2. Sheep: Ram Clubs. Stomach Worm Treatment. Annual Meeting and Banquet Purebred Ewes. Wool Exhibit at Harrisburg.

3. Poultry. Poultry Culling Demonstrations.

4. Potatoes: Spraying. Good Seed.

5. Club Work. Potato Clubs. Junior Cow Clubs.

6. Orchards: Spraying.

7. Corn (Silage).

As stated in previous articles the State and Federal Government pays the salary of the Farm Agent. The local expenses, such as office rent, automobile up-keep, stenographer's salary, traveling expenses, postage, and numerous other items, must be paid by the county. The county commissioners appropriate $1500 toward the local up-keep. This not sufficient to carry out the above program and secure the results desired. In order to secure sufficient funds a campaign was put on, soliciting farmers to become members of the Farm Bureau by paying the annual dues of $2.00. The campaign ends February 5th.
